

The Saint Louis Zoo wants to hear from you!

We are asking educators, residents and organizations that provide or utilize educational services to north St. Louis County residents to join us for a community discussion. We want to hear your thoughts about the educational resources in your community—where they are located, how often they are utilized and what your community enjoys most about them. By helping us better understand the assets that already exist in your community, you can co-design the future of education at and around the Zoo’s new property in north St. Louis County.

Register today to attend one of these events and help the Zoo answer questions about how we can build upon and collaborate with the educational assets and resources that are already working well across north St. Louis County. Please register for only one date.
